Project Description

Are you a graphic design student looking to build a portfolio of professional projects you can showcase to future employers? This opportunity with USAID's Development Outreach and Communications team in Tanzania will help you do just that. We are an experienced group of storytellers seeking a self-motivated graphic designer who can bring to life with compelling visuals our many amazing stories of how US development assistance is saving lives and lifting people out of poverty in Tanzania. Your work will be seen by thousands of Tanzanians who follow us on social media and benefit from our 100+ projects, in addition to an American audience interested in international affairs and foreign policy in sub-Saharan Africa. You will have broad creative license in helping us brainstorm and develop new products, including web-friendly infographics and print brochures, banners, and other publicity materials. USAID is the lead US Government agency that works to end extreme global poverty and enable resilient, democratic societies to realize their potential. Our assistance develops the markets of the future; long-time aid recipients have become strong trade partners and are the fastest growing markets for American goods. USAID extends help from the American people to achieve results for the poorest and most vulnerable around the world, improving the lives of millions by:

Investing in agricultural productivity so countries can feed their people;

Combating maternal and child mortality and deadly diseases like HIV, malaria and tuberculosis;

Providing life-saving assistance in the wake of disaster;

Promoting democracy, human rights and good governance around the world;

Fostering private sector development and sustainable economic growth;

Helping communities adapt to a changing environment;

Elevating the role of women and girls throughout all our work.
